ALLERGY TEST – 48 HOURS BEFORE COLOURING

Hair colour products may cause an allergic reaction, and in rare instances these can be serious. Do not colour if you have had a previous reaction. To help minimize your risk, it is important to perform the skin allergy test 48 hours prior to every application.

- Cleanse the inside of your elbow with mild soap and water, without rubbing. Pat dry.
- Remove the tip of The Mixer™ and gently push 1" of the product through the nozzle on to a small plastic dish or paper towel.
- Apply a small amount of colour from The Mixer™ to the inside of your elbow. Recap The Mixer™.
- Allow the colour to dry. Do not wash the site for 48 hours.
- If no reaction occurs, you are ready to colour. Follow the directions under One-step application.
- If a rash or redness, burning or itching occurs, you may be allergic and you must not use this product.

If, during colouring, you experience intense stinging or burning and/or a rash, rinse your hair immediately. Do not colour your hair again without consulting a physician. If you experience shortness of breath, seek prompt medical attention.

BEFORE YOU START

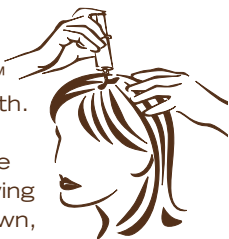

- Take the allergy test 48 hours in advance.

TIPS FOR ROOT TOUCH-UP SUCCESS...

- Select a colour that closely matches your shade after your hair has been washed a few times since your last colouring.
- Make note of selected colour name and number for the next time.
- For best results, wash your hair a day or two before you want to colour your roots, and don't use any hair care products to avoid a build-up.
